

UBUNTU COURTYARD

Dear Reader,

Thank you for taking the time to visit our courtyard online. I hope that every moment you spend with us will be a pleasant experience and that when you leave, you would have gained something new and inspirational.

Stories penned on this website are not written by professional writers. They are coming from people who have a hunger and passion for sharing their stories and experiences to motivate one another.

Mine is a story of hope, faith and restoration because I've gained knowledge, insight and support from many people across the globe. That's what Ubuntu Courtyard is all about, supporting, helping and learning from one another so we can all thrive.

I'm thankful for your patronage and would love to hear from you regarding your journeys so you can encourage others. With the benefit of hindsight, our experiences, whether good or bad, normally work for our overall good.

To my family, friends and destiny helpers, thank you for believing in me. Without your support and prayers, Ubuntu Courtyard would have never been conceived and birthed.

God bless you!

Regards,

Fortune Ma-one
